Nansemond Veterinary Clinic Celebrates 75 Years

SUFFOLK, Virginia (November 4, 2013) Nansemond Veterinary Clinic is proud to announce they are celebrating 75 years in business. To celebrate this outstanding achievement, they are hosting week-long celebrations from November 4th through November 9th. Mayor Linda T. Johnson will be on hand on Tuesday, November 5th, at 12:30 to cut a ceremonial Ribbon for the staff. During the week there will be special goodie bags for their animal patients, refreshments for their owners and scheduled tours.

Nansemond Veterinary Clinic was founded in 1938 as Kress Animal Hospital, originally located on North Main Street in Suffolk. In 1990 they relocated to the current location, at 110 Kensington Boulevard, just off Route 10/Godwin Boulevard, and adopted their new name.

The clinic provides a full suite of animal care, such as diagnostic services, animal hospital services, surgery, radiology, dentistry, permanent identification, grooming and boarding. Four full-time Veterinarians are on staff as well as supporting personnel.

Owner Woody Kessler, DVM, remarked "We are so excited to be celebrating Nansemond Veterinary Clinic's 75th year in the community. This is an amazing milestone to achieve, and we are very proud to be a part of Suffolk's history. We are looking forward to providing excellent veterinary care for years to come."

Nansemond Veterinary Clinic became AAHA certified in 1992. AAHA is the only organization that accredits animal hospitals throughout the U.S. and Canada.

“Nansemond Veterinary Clinic is a shining example of what makes Suffolk so special,” said Suffolk Mayor Linda T. Johnson. “For the past 75 years, they have provided outstanding veterinary care to our beloved companions. This is truly a noteworthy milestone, and we wish them much continued success!”

Hours of operation are Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. To learn more, visit their website at www.nansemondvet.com or find them on facebook.
