Suffolk Street Festival Showcases Restaurants

SUFFOLK, Va. (September 11, 2009): Whether you have a craving for oysters on the half shell, shrimp and grits, bacon-wrapped quail, baby back ribs or maybe just a perfectly grilled hot dog or southern style barbecue—downtown Suffolk is the place to be tomorrow from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Ten Suffolk eateries will showcase their signature items during the Third Annual Taste of Suffolk Downtown Street Festival on North Main Street in Suffolk's historic district. Two stages for all day entertainment includes performances by Hotcakes, Lewis McGehee, Joe Gosman Band, Shamel Shiloh and many others. A children's area with bounce houses and mini-golf, a Cornhole Tournament, crafters, a New Vehicle Exhibition, and even a jalapeno eating contest guarantees a fun-filled day for the entire family! Festival admission is free and open to the public, nominal fees apply for food samples. Contact the Suffolk Visitor Center at (757) 514-4130 for additional details.

The Taste of Suffolk Downtown Street Festival is sponsored by BOB FM, Lipton, Lockheed Martin, Planters, Suffolk Economic Development Authority and Suffolk Parks and Recreation. Log onto Suffolk-Fun.com for more information.
