“FRED CLAUS” AT BENNETT’S CREEK PARK

SUFFOLK, VA (December 9, 2010) - Bundle up and head to Bennett’s Creek Park for the third and final film in the “Cinema in the Park” series. Join Suffolk Parks and Recreation for “Fred Claus,” a film about Santa’s brother who has lived his entire life in his shadow.

Fred has tried, but can’t live up to the example set by the younger Nicholas. St. Nicholas grew up to be the model of giving, while Fred became the opposite, a fast talking repo man who has run out of luck and money. Eventually, Fred’s bad behavior catches up with him and he is sent to jail. His only recourse is to turn to his brother. Over Mrs. Claus’ objections, Nicholas agrees to help his brother on one condition; that he come to the North Pole and earn the money he needs by working in Santa’s Toy Shop. The trouble is that Fred isn’t exactly elf material and cut out for creating toys and spreading good cheer. With Christmas fast approaching, Fred could jeopardize the jolliest holiday of the year and ruin Christmas.

“Fred Claus” will begin at 6 p.m. The weather is supposed to be quite chilly, so remember to bundle up, wear a jacket, gloves and a hat and also to bring a chair. Popcorn is available.
